ATTN: Presidents of all Classes, Student Clubs, and Organizations

Once again it is time to elect officers for your class, club or organization. I hope that your elections will be completed by or before Friday, April 14th; thus, the new officers will have some time to adjust to their office and to make plans for next fall. When you have elected your new officers, please send a list of those names and offices to me.

Faculty/Staff advisors are selected by the College President and the Dean of Academic Affairs from a list of names submitted by the class or organization. All advisors serve on an annual basis. Please select three people indicating first, second, and third choices. In the past there have been some advisors "overloaded." Be sure to ask your nominees if they are willing and will have the time to serve as advisor. Turn your list of advisor nominees in to me with the list of newly elected officers.

If I can be of assistance to you, please call me at Ext. 262.

A. F. FINALIST #1

OUR REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE CONVENT

SR. M. LAURITA KROGER

SHE WAS CHOSEN BECAUSE
SR RACHEL REGISTRAR SAID "NO."

DEAR GRETA CARBO,,,

My brother is weird and I don't know what to do about it! I think you could best describe him as a social leper but the worst part about it is that he likes being a leper. He really gets into strange music and bizarre philosophies. I think he really likes people deep down, but he can't relate to them. What do I do to help him?

— Disorientated Sibling —

Dear D. S.

You cut me to the QUICK! From your letter, I find it difficult to determine with what standards you evaluate your brother's social position, philosophical interests or musical preference. (Rosemary Clooney is definitely not IN this Year!) Labeling your brother a social leper is a very serious accusation. You state that, although he likes he likes people, he is not able to relate to them. Does this cause him pain or anxiety? Is he unable to grow as an individual? If he is not suffering, if he is not experiencing trauma, and if he is living a full life, then I don't think he needs any help.

It appears to me that your brother's peculiarities might actually be qualities that you yourself possess...and don't like. It is easy to project one's own dissatisfaction with oneself on another. It is not necessary that your brother meet your standards or anyone else's.

It's nice to know that you care about your brother—whatever the situation may be. So very few families these days are close. My advice to you is to keep open your communication and should he ask for your assistance, give it. But for heaven's sake, don't try to mold his life into a pattern of your own choosing. You'll only clear the way for frustration and unhappiness—for both of you.

GRETTA

P.S. I hear it's tough being an R.A.!!!!

DEAR GRETTA,

I thought Christmas Break was bad only because it was a month long but after a week home during Spring Break I know I won't be able to last the whole summer. Other the food, I think I've been spoiled by life in the dorm. I need a job this summer to save money for next year, but if I stayed in the dorm I'd have to pay to live there and I'd need a car for an off-campus job. If I go home my parents will drive me up the wall after a couple of days. Believe me, I try to get along with them. I really do. If I go home, I'll be neurotic by August Gretta and I don't know what to do. HELP!!

— Prodigal Child—

Dear P.C.

I myself and many students at Marian and at colleges across the country can identify with your situation. When one leaves home it is difficult to return and expect the same living conditions to exist. While you are away, you grow and develop and your family does the same. You both are on separate "planes". The juxtaposition of these planes causes conditions to be difficult at times. Your first step is to realize that these changes do exist and are Natural!! Secondly, It is important to know that you alone are in control of how you will interpret and react to a situation. No one can MAKE you climb walls. You can choose to climb the walls or to react in a more productive and mature manner. I suggest that you talk with the members of your family about the situation. Try to have both parties understand each other's position. Both you and your family may have to make concessions (continued next column)

WORKSHOP/CONCERT

On Saturday, April 8, 1978, the Program Committee and Religious Affairs Committee are sponsoring a workshop and concert. The workshop will be from 2p.m. - 4p.m. in the Old Mixed Lounge (under the Clare Hall gym). "Music and Worship Workshop—The Guitar at Mass" will be the topic. Rev. John Kirby and Mr. Paul Gabonay will conduct the "do" part of the Workshop and Mr. Charles Gardner (Diocesan Director of Liturgical Music) will preface this with remarks concerning parish liturgies. They have been involved in liturgical music for a number of years and have published their own music for use in liturgies.

The Concert in the Library Auditorium from 8-11p.m. will feature John, Paul and their friends for the first half and Charles and his group for the second half. Songs will range from contemporary religious to contemporary secular; "Favorite Songs for Reflection and Fun" is the title and I am sure you will enjoy them all. All of the presentors have been involved with music for many years and have made significant contributions part of their lives. Each has a zest for expressing himself through his music and giving witness to God.

Both the workshop and the Concert are free to the Marian College community. Non-Marian guests will be charged $1.00 for both/either event. Plan to attend the day's activities and enjoy yourself. The price can't be beat and neither can the offerings. See you there Saturday, April 8th.

Thanks, Merle

The Theater Dept. is still putting on "Snow White and the Pillow People" despite very small threatening letters from gnomes, Munchkins, elves, and other drawf-lovers. ("Short people got la da de da — Margo)

Now for some happy tidings: Ben and Margo are getting married. Yes, our Mistress of Mayhem and our Vivacious Viking are tying the knot. Bette will be Maid of Honor (Hee hee hee — See Peter.) (Watch it, bonzo! — Bette) A sheep will be best man. (Around here, I guess he'd have to be — Bette.) The ceremony will take place at the Famous Door, between shows, and they'll honeymoon in Atlantis (Ben said he knows where it is! — Margo) (jah, dere bane one time I pillage whole town. I see dis wench and —) (That is ENOUGH, Dahling! — Bette and Margo)

TO THE MASSES!!!!

I have talked with several students here at Marian about the problem of "Entertainment". I, myself, have wondered at times just what is there to do around Indianapolis. With the encouragement of Sr. Mary de Paul Schweitzer, Pam Wetula, and Dean Woodman, I have decided to look into events which take place in the area and publish them here in the CARBON.

The Indianapolis Museum of Art offers special exhibits, lectures, films, and concerts of excellent quality. — many of which are no cost. The art Museum is a very important resource for Marian students for along with its fine educational and entertaining programs it is within walking distance from the college! Student memberships of the museum are: $7.50 per year. This offers the students discounts to events which do charge admission.

I ask all faculty members, staff and students who know of any concerts, lectures, exhibits and other activities to please inform me by phone call (Ex. 567) or submitting WRITTEN information in the CARBON mailbox in the Student Services Office. I hope to make this a regular and successful feature in the CARBON.
